LOCAL HARBOR BILL REPORTED TO SENATE

Official Census Count Will Give Richmond Population Of 20,000

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Twenty-third street drowses in the sun.

* * * *

From in front of a hardware store a radio blares forth at the top of its lungs.

* * * *

E. B. Bull parks his car across the street, waves his hand to a friend and walks into the M. A. Hays office.

* * * *

A street car rounds the corner with a clang of bells and stops to discharge passengers.

* * * *

The San Pablo dinky grunts to a halt and a woman with two children, one with a dirty face, get off.

* * * *

A machine in a shoe shop whines in a high tenor. Thru the door comes the pound-pound of the cobbler's hammer.

* * * *

A black and white fox terrier sleeps in the sun in front of the Sunset Cigar store.

* * * *

Next door, in front of the Venus, sits an English bull dog, bow-legged and looking ferocious.

* * * *

A boy comes out of the store and feeds the dog a piece of candy, bringing a satisfied grunt from the pooch.

* * * *

Cars drive up in front of Coster's service station. "Fill 'er up."

* * * *

One can imagine a weak-minded person would have a tough time trying to make up his mind as to what brand of gasoline he wanted to buy from A. C.

* * * *

Ed Crane stands in front of his service shop, talking to a friend.

* * * *

Art Coon and his fox terrier walk up the street. Art enters his store and the purp lies down on the sidewalk.

* * * *

"Doc" Hewitt comes down the steps from his offices, stands at the corner, and lights a cigar. "Doc" looks tired.

* * * *

M. A. Hays parks another new car beside his office, and enters the place, smoking his usual cigar.

* * * *

"Red" Conlon is telling a friend how baseball should be played.

* * * *

Through the open door of a restaurant comes the odor of cooking.

* * * *

The door of the hotel bangs shut as someone enters.

* * * *

A. B. Minter walks past the office, humming a song.

* * * *

Mrs. W. H. Sanford nods cheerily to friends as they walk by her offices.

* * * *

And some one tries to find a parking place near the RECORD-HERALD office, — gives up in disgust and parks the car at Tenth street and WALKS up here.

PASSAGE OF BILL SEEN IN REPORT

According to press dispatches received here yesterday, the rivers and harbors bill authorizing projects totaling $110,000,000 was reported to the Senate.

No changes were made in the measure as it passed the house, the dispatches said.

The bill authorizes the appropriation of the sum of $313,000 for the maintenance of the Richmond harbor.

Early Passage

Early passage of the bill by the Senate was indicated in the reports received here.

The house passed the bill without a record vote several weeks ago and sent it to the senate.

Hearings were started immediately by the senate committee, with U. S. engineers and others called to testify.

Hearing Ends

The hearings ended yesterday and the bill was immediately reported to the senate.

If the bill is passed it will relieve the city of Richmond of the cost of maintaining the depth of the channel in the local harbor.

The bill provides for:

San Francisco harbor $1,284,000; Richmond harbor, $313,000; Suisun bay $52,000; Petaluma creek, $185,000; San Diego harbor, $394,000; Los Angeles, Long Beach and Monterey harbors, $610-000; Middle river and Empire cut $3,000, and Humbodlt harbor and bay, $92,000.

DRIVER GETS TERM DELAY

After changing his plea from "not guilty as charged" to that of "guilty," L. C. Peterson, who for a time threatened to disrupt the speeding laws of the entire state, was given an additional postponement of sentence yesterday.

Because he did not have his drivers' license with him when he appeared before Justice of the Peace A. A. Alstrom yesterday, Peterson, on request of his attorney, W. S. Robenson, was given until Tuesday at 2 o'clock to receive his sentence. Peterson was originally scheduled to receive the sentence yesterday.

The defendant was arrested by County Officer Charles Nissen for driving his automobile 68 miles an hour in a 40-mile zone.

Robenson declared that his client could not be sentenced on the charge because there is no speed limit in the state. He explained this on the grounds that during the last state legislature, unamended portions of the state vehicular act were not included in the revised law. In that portion left out, Robinson said, was the paragraph setting a speed limit in the state.

Although he had previously demanded a jury trial and had declared that he would carry the case to the highest court of the state, on the date of the trial last Thursday, he suddenly changed the plea to guilty.

RADIO STUDIO FOR SCHRADER NEW STORE

Arrangements are now being made by W. L. Gleeson, general manager of KROW and L. H. Schrader of Richmond, to use the mezzaine floor of the new L. H. Schrader furniture building, located at Twenty-fourth street and Macdonald avenue for a broadcasting studio for all programs coming from that city.

The building now under construction should be finished by July 1, and should the plans now under consideration be completed, Richmond wil have one of the finest, as well as most modern, studios of any city of its size.

This, however, will not affect the broadcasting from the main studio on Eighth avenue in Oakland, said Gleeson today, but wil give all Richmond programs to that city.

William (Nat) Friend and "The Romance of Oakland" will head today's program coming from KROW. Friend, who is a pioneer in Oakland and knows the city and surrounding country well, will speak of the beauties of this city and the progress made since he first arrived.

Others on today's program: 3:30, Bill Simmons and his Hayseeds band; 4:30, West Coast Theater Frolic, with Barney Lewis and the Music Makers; 5 to 6, Dr. Wade Forrester and the Gloom Chasers led by Charlie Pacheco; 7:30, complete baseball returns and prominent news items; 7:45, the Ne'er Do Well with his lazy sentimentalities; 8 to 8:30, William Nat Friend "Romance of Oakland."

KROW yesterday applied to the federal radio commission for permission to erect a new station, change its frequency from 930 to 740 kilocycles, increase its day power from one to two kilowatts and night power from 500 watts to one kilowati.

Tots Organized In Music Club

A baby musical ensemble is being organized in Richmond it was announced yesterday by Turner G. Brashear, local violinist. Children to participate in the new organization must be under six years of age.

The lists will be kept open until there are 20 tots in the show, which will be modeled after a similar organization at Ukiah.

The ensemble will be formed at the violinist's studio, at 418 Sixth street, he said.

THE WEATHER

Fair and mild today and tomorrow with fog in early morning; moderate to fresh westerly winds.

REPORT WILL BE MADE SOON

Richmond's population when the official census report is made, will be in excess of 20,000.

This was the belief expressed by E. L. Dinklespiel, director of the census for this district in an interview with a representative of the RECORD-HERALD yesterday.

Dinklespiel said that the list turned in by enumerators for this district is being closely checked and that half of the work has been done.

It is expected that the official list will be announced by him from his offices in Vallejo within the next few days.

Richmond and the whole of Contra Costa county has shown a remarkable increase, Dinklespiel declared.

Semi-official reports sent to the city recently placed the population at 19,945.

City officials immediately launched a last minute checkup with the results that a number of new names were added to the list, bringing the unofficial population of this city up to slightly in excess of 20,000.

STUDENTS TO VISIT REFINERY

To inspect the Standard Oil plant in Richmond, 18 chemical engineering class students of the Oregon state college, arrived here yesterday.

The dispatch said Parr discussed the bay barrier project with the president.

FOUR TINS OF CONFISCATED RUM LOST IN EL CERRRITO

LOST, STRAYED OR STOLEN: Four, five gallon tins of wine. Return to El Cerrito city jail. No questions asked.

All locked up in a strong city prison, with the keys to the cell in the city vault, four tins of wine have mysteriously disappeared from the city bastile of the city of El Cerrito.

Police authorities are of the opinion that it is all a mistake—that there was a mistake in counting, or something.

"Men about town" insist that the forbidden juice of the beautiful grape was stolen.

Something Wrong

But, nevertheless, something is wrong some place.

It all started two weeks ago when Traffic Officer Floyd Gilbert picked up two gentlemen on San Pablo avenue driving a specially built car.

Gilbert, so police say, searched the car and found in a specially built rear compartment of the coupe a number of five gallon tins of wine, whiskey and what have you.

Two Tried

The two gentlemen gave their names as A. Buti and A. Pedri of Alameda and were locked in the city jail over night and the "likker" was confiscated.

The next morning the two men were released and they appeared

LABORATORY FOUND IN HOTEL

Experiments in chemistry resulted in the detention of two 15 year old high school boys and the discovery of a well equipped laboratory in a building at Twenty-second street and Macdonald avenue by Richmond police yesterday.

The two boys were arrested after a mysterious explosion had rocked a street car at the intersection of Macdonald avenue and Twenty-second street yesterday afternoon.

The names of the boys were withheld by the police.

Numerous Blasts

For a number of weeks mysterious explosions have been occuring in front of the vacant building which was formerly occupied as a hotel.

Numerous complaints were made that boys were seen entering the place.

Yesterday a few minutes before the explosion, police saw two boys walk into the middle of the street stop and pretend they were tying their shoe laces.

Raid Made

They left and a few minutes after a street car passed. Two loud explosions followed and the street car was shaken slightly by the blast.

Police immediately entered the vacant hotel where they found the two boys at work in what police described to be a well equipped laboratory.

The two boys were at work on more of the "bombs" when arrested, police reported.

Police declare that the boys seemed not to be aware of the danger of the practice and explained their acts by saying they were only "experimenting."

The two 'would be' chemists were taken to Martinez, where their case will be handled by the juvenile court officials.

MAN HELD ON BATTERY COUNT

W. R. Bowen was in the city jail last night, awaiting hearing before Justice of the Peace A. A. Alstrom today.

Bowen was arrested on a charge of battery yesterday, following complaints that he had annoyed several children in south Richmond. The parents of one of the children took the number of an automobile, and turned it over to police, with the result that Bowen was arrested.

The man lives at 2410 Maine street, Richmond.

Oaks Again Defeated By San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—UP—The Sacramento Senators increased their lead of the Pacific Coast league a full game today, beating Los Angeles, 8 to 3, as the San Francisco Seals were defeating the second place Oaks, 4 to 0. Gould, veteran Sacramento hurler, was helped by timely hits early in the game and had a seven run lead after the fifth inning. Although this was decreased slightly, he was never in serious danger.

Jimmy Zinn, who came to the Seals from the Cleveland Indians and hurled a no-run, no-hit game against the Senators last week, allowed Oakland only one hit today. When Sheely, Seal first baseman ,hit a homer in the eighth inning it was the winning run. The only hit off Zinn was a single by Martin, Oak center fielder, in the fourth inning.

The San Francisco Missions, helped by Cole's shut-out performance, beat Seattle, 6 to 0. The Missions made a triple play in the ninth inning.

Portland went 10 innings before beating Hollywood, 12 to 11.

Almost before you realize it, you have chewed the pain away. It's as simple as that—no trouble, and harmless—for Dillard's Aspergum is the new and easier way to take aspirin.
Dillard's Aspergum is the finest aspirin in delicious chewing gum form. You can take it any time—any place. You need no water to gulp it down. There is no unpleasant taste—no choking.
Because you chew Dillard's Aspergum the aspirin mixes thoroughly with the saliva so that all its soothing qualities are effective quickly, continuously.
Keep a package of Aspergum on hand for quick, harmless relief from the pain of headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, etc. It helps break up a cold, and soothes irritated throats, even such severe cases as follow tonsil operations. If your druggist does not have Dillard's Aspergum, send for free sample to Health Products Corporation, Dept. A, 113 North 13th Street, Newark, N. J.

Native Sons, Juniors To Meet Today

The Big Native Sons and the Little Native Sons will settle a baseball argument tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, at First street.

The Native Son Juniors have just captured the title of the Richmond American Legion baseball circuit, and are rated as fine little ball players. They are captained by Robert San Miguel. The Native Sons Seniors are members of the Richmond City Twilight league, and are also recognized as a rather hefty outfit.

The members of the Junior American League team are: Santalla, Novascone, catchers; Lemon, Passoni, pitchers; Scaracella, 1b; Humphrey, 2b; Moitoza, 3b; Outman, shortstop; White, utility infielder; Collins, R. Banducci, and DeCorten, outfielders.

Browns Defeat Indians In Third

CLEVELAND, May 23.—UP—Timely hitting in the eighth inning pulled another ball game out of the fire for the St. Louis Browns today, the Cleveland Indians losing their third straight, 5 to 4.

With the Indians one run ahead in the eighth, the Browns suddenly found Pete Jablonowski's curves, Heinie Manush leading the parade with a triple. Kress' single scored Manush to tie it up, 4 to 4, and a moment later Gullic hit a long one to centerfield driving Kress across with the winning run.

Riches Scorned By L. A. Woman

LOS ANGELES,—Mrs. Lester J. Norris, who before her marriage was Dellora Angell ,one of the world's richest heiresses, has returned to this city bringing in four parcels what she considers her greatest wealth.

The parcels are her four children.

"Children are the real happiness and happiness is the real wealth," said the mother, who inherited $38-000,000 from her grandfather, the late John W. Gates of Chicago.

hTe marriage of Mrs. Norris seven years ago to a struggling newspaper cartoonist, was widely discussed by a smart circle of her friends who could not understand the famous heiress' life philosophy —children and happiness the big objective.

Today Mrs Norris, her husband and children ,are happily settled in a comfortable but unpretentious home. The owelling holds no display of wealth or luxury.

BROOKLYNS TIE BRAVES BY VICTORY

By UNITED PRESS

NATIONAL LEAGUE:

Brooklyn's slugging Robins climbed into a tie for the National league lead Friday by defeating the Boston Braves, 6 to 3, and gaining a half-game on the idle St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cards and Robins now have a full game lead over the third place Pittsburgh Pirates, with the New York Giants and Chicago Cubs in a virtual tie for a fourth place, 2 1-2 games behind the leaders.

Bill Clark pitched the Robins to their win over Boston, holding the Braves to nine well scattered hits, while his mates pounded Ed Brandt and Cunningham for 13 blows. Clark encountered trouble in only one inning. Wallie Berger hitting his tenth home run of the season in the sixth with a mate on base.

Pittsburgh kept pace with the leaders, defeating the Chicago Cubs 7 to 6. The Cubs outhit the Pirates 14 to 10, but their ninth inning rally was checked with the tying run on base.

The Philadelphia Phillies outslugged the New York Giants, 9 to 8. The Phi's won the game with a five run rally in the eighth and Smyth halted a Giants' rally in the ninth.

Rain kept the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds idle.

AMERICAN LEAGUE—

Walter Stewart pitched the St. Louis Browns to a 5 to 4 win over the Cleveland Indians. The Browns trailed until the eighth inning when a triple by Manush and singles by Kress and Gullic produced the tieing and winning runs

The defeat dropped the Indians to fourth place in the league standings, with the New York Yankees moving into third place—their highest mark of the 1930 season.

Rain prevented Detroit and Chicago from playing the only other scheduled game of the day.

The New York Yankees tuned up for Saturday's doubleheader against the Philadelphia Athletics by slugging out a 20 to 2 win over the Army in an exhibition game at West Point.

Sons To Meet Elks' Nine

The Twilight League leading Native Sons baseball team of Richmond, in its search for new fields to conquer, will take on the Oakland Elks squad at the First street ball park here Sunday. The contest is scheduled to start at 2:30.

The local aggregation was originally scheduled to play a double-header Sunday, but the morning game has been postponed.

WRITER LAUDS LUMMOX FILM

"A new muse has been born. Hollywood is the cradle of the great art of our time, so big an art that you cannot call up sufficiently extravagant phrases about it."

Thus Fannie Hurst, greatest living woman novelist, expresses her opinion of the talking motion pictures.

Miss Hurst journeyed three thousand miles from New York to Hollywood to watch Herbert Brennon, United Artists directorial genius, transform her famous novel "Lummox" opening today at the Fox California theatre, into what the public has acclaimed as the greatest "heart" picture ever produced.

The famous authoress watched Brennon select his cast for "Lummox," which critics and the public alike agree is the directorial achievement of a genius. When the cast went into rehearsals, Miss Hurst waxed enthusiastic over Brennon's selections. They were living images of the characters in her book.

The "Lummox" cast, probably the most brilliant ever assembled before a motion picture camera, includes Winifred Westover, Ben Lyon, William Collier Jr., Edna Murphy, Myrtle Stedman, Clara Langsner Dorothy Janis, Danny O'Shea, William Bakewell, Torben Meyer, Myrta Bonillas, Cosmos Kyrle Bellew, Lydia Yeamans, Titus, Bobby Ullman Fan Bourke and Ida Darling.

"I didn't intend to like talking pictures," Miss Hurst confessed. "I was cagey about the reports of talking pictures depleting Broadway. At first, the squawking picture with its curious harelip actor reciting adenoidal lines that appeared in New York was horrible. You wanted to chase it into a jungle.

"Now," continued Miss Hurst, "I have come so completely around to dialogue and sound pictures that I firmly believe they have driven the last nail into the legitimate drama as an art for the masses. The theatre now belongs only to a precious group. It seems amazing that a lovely old art should have curled up and died."

Miss Hurst declared that it was not long after her arrival on the United Artists lot before she discovered that she was a "useless fixture."

"Herbert Brenon," the famous authoress declared, "had such a rare insight into the character of 'Lummox' and he has interpreted her far beyond the point I had written her. He not only anticipated me with a thought, but always a little ahead of me. 'Lummox" has been one of those rare collaborations. It is one picture I don't need to see in the making."

Miss Hurst was accompanied to Hollywood by her husband, Jack Danielson, noted pianist, composer and leading figure in New York's musical life.

As guests of Joseph M. Schenck president of United Artists studios the famous couple came to Hollywood for a vacation. Instead, Miss Hurst changed her plans and did the dialogue for the Brenon production. Danielson did brilliant work in collaborating with Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld, chief of United Artists musical activities, on the synchronization of "Lummox."

Musical Film Draws Crowd At Richmond

"The Broadway Hoofer," Columbia's all-talking, singing picture, which opened at the Riehmond theatre, proved to be a decidedly pleasing romantic drama, interspersed with catchy tunes and artistic dance numbers.

The story is simple, but sufficiently strong to carry the audience, even without the excellent musical features. Acting honors must be about equally divided among the three principals — Marie Saxon, Jack Egan and Louise Fadenza. Miss Saxon is a charming blonde with great dancing and singing ability. Her role in "The Broadway Hoofer" gives her plenty of opportunity to display these talents. She won much favor with last night's audience. George Archainbaud deserves mention for the excellent direction.

Inside facts ABOUT STUDIOS and PLAYERS

by TOM WOOD

Did you know that Paul Whiteman, The King Of Jazz, comes from a musical family? His father was director of musical education in the schools of Denver, Colorado, for thirty years. His mother sang in oratories and choirs for many years.

You've seen girl shows. Stage revues featuring multitudes of feminine pulchritude have been without number. The finest talking pictures have been built around them. The King of Jazz offers you more charm, beauty and grace than any. Until you have seen it—well, you ain't seen nothing yet.

It's true. Corinne Griffith really means to retire from pictures. Springtime and a brand new cottage at Malibu beach are too alluring. Besides there must be occasional trips to the Mediterranean Riviera and the romantic side places of the old world that will be enjoyed. Mighty little time for gadding about the map while under contract.

Here's good news. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is preparing to make The Unholy Three as a talker. Two of the original leads, Lon Chaney and Harry Earle, the baby, will replay their parts and officials are casting about for someone to assume Victor McLaglen's strong man role. What a wow for Primo Carnera could he only "spika de eenglish"

Things you probably would like to know anent the cast of The King Of Jazz:—Jeanette Loff's favorite hobby is playing the pipe organ; John Boles takes a singing lesson every day; Frank Leslie rides a horse as well as the Prince of Wales and falls off better; John Murray Anderson, the director, is a fashion plate, but his associate Bob Ross never has time to knot his tie, he tucks it into his shirt front.

Columnists love to poke fun at the jealousies of Hollywood's producers. For months everybody has been guessing, gossiping, speculating as to just how good The King Of Jazz would be. Now they know. Here is a picture. The most glorious entertainment ever recorded. It's original, different, colorful, melodious and alive with sparkling comedy.

Paul Whiteman never plays a concert but that he finishes the final down beat by tossing his baton to the audience. When you see The King of Jazz you'll get everything that's Paul Whiteman but the baton.

ALL STAR CAST IN ADVENTURE DRAMA HERE

"The Mysterious Island" Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's fantastic romance of the unknown depths of the ocean, with dialogue and synchronized sound, is the spectacular attraction which opens tomorrow at the Fox-California theater.

Filmed entirely in color, and most of it under the sea, with the strange denizens of the deep acting with human actors in diving armor or in the great submarine which invades the subsea domain, the new picture is one of the outstanding feats of the screen today.

Production and direction by Lucien Hubbard, from his own adaptation of the Jules Verne story that predicted the submarine, the picture was filmed, partly near Bermuda with the use of the Williamson undersea cameras, and partly on the California coast.

The strange, humanlike sea creatures in the picture, fantastic vagaries of the author's imagination, but still based on scientific fact, form a remarkable situation and the watcher, transported to the depths under the ocean, is literally in a new world peopled with new beings in the startling production.

Lloyd Hughes, Jane Daly, Gibson Gowland, Montagu Love, Harry Gribbon and others of note are in the cast surrounding Lionel Barrymore who plays the mysterious "Dakkar" inventor and captain of the strange undersea craft in which the fantastic adventure is launched. The submarine was an elaborate piece of engineering and its evolutions in the water, are thrilling detail to the fantastic romance.

ALBERTS STORE AT SAN RAFAEL RE-OPENED

With more than 5000 visitors present, the San Rafael Albert's store which has been remodeled, was opened last night.

Among the visitors were more than 100 Richmond residents, and employes from the San Anselmo, Napa and Richmond stores.

The remodeling of the store has made it one of the foremost in modern equipment in the vicinity, and the visitors were loud in their praise of the establishment. Dancing was enjoyed during the evening.

The mezzanine floor of the store will be a haven of rest for the weary shoppers, combining luxury with comfort.

The floor plans are as carefully prepared as the design for a new bridge. Men skilled in department store planning have made the most of every inch of space with the result that shopping is made a great deal more pleasant for the customer.

Albert's department store in San Rafael is now the largest and the most modern mercantile establishment in the Marin county seat. The store is also the oldest of the present chain, which includes Richmond, San Anselmo, Napa and San Rafael.

Jacob Albert moved to San Rafael 35 years ago from San Francisco, and started a small store on Fourth street, where the Hotel Wilkins now stands. At that time, San Rafael was but a small village and Marin county was but sparsely populated with a number of united communities.

As the county and city grew in population, so did the store grow in the esteem of the people, and business increased rapidly.

It was only a few years when business was so extensive that the store was moved to larger quarters, in what is now the Orpheum Theater block. The trade followed, new customers were added daily, and it was only a short time before more room was needed. The establishment was then enlarged to take in what is now the Woolworth store.

Patronage increased by leaps and bounds and the business soon outgrew the confines of the building, and another move was decided upon.

The building now occupied by Albert's was erected and the trade continued to flock to the establishment, necessitating the annexation of a boy's and men's shop and a household goods department.

But still business continued to grow, and five months ago, workmen began remodeling the store. The most modern type of furniture and fixtures was installed, a downstairs store built in, and the entire building repainted and redecorated.

Albert's San Rafael Store

ENTIRELY REMODELLED from basement to mezzanine, the Albert's department store at San Rafael was opened last night with a record crowd in attendance. Top shows exterior view of store, while below is view of main floor. Albert's stores are operated in Richmond, San Anselma, San Rafael and Napa.

No Ice In These Refrigerators

BELLINGHAM, Wash.—A marked innovation in shipment of fancy boxed fruit to the eastern markets, a car of Anjou pears left the C. M. Holtzinger plant here in an iceless refrigerator car. The shipment was billed to the William Joseph company, New York.

Ten more of the new type cars will be sent to Yakima and at least five of them will be used to ship fruit to the Joseph company, W. H. Hudgins, local manager, said.

Larger load capacity is possible in the iceless refrigerator cars, with 760 boxes to be packed instead of the usual 511.

Founder Of Store Firm

JACOB ALBERT is the founder of Albert's department stores in Richmond, San Rafael, San Anselmo and Napa. His remodelled San Rafael store was opened last night.

INDIANS DANCE TO AID SICK TRIBEMAN

CAMERON, Ariz., May 23.—UP—Sparks roar upward from huge bonfires and tom-toms boom weird desert chants as 300 chieftains, braves and squaws of the Navajo clan continue their primative ceremonies in an effort to free Hosteen Pohi—very slow man—from painful devils.

All day long, messengers had galloped into this little trading post from Rock Crossing, bearing messages for Domi who lies ill in his hogan, four miles from here. But half-hearted gutteral sounds from the tribal leader indicate he still is haunted by dveils.

As the sunset faded tonight, the host of Navapos tried new songs and medicines to frighten the evil ones from the pain-racked body of their chieftain.

Many Fires

Rock Crossing on the Little Colorado river glistened with ceremony fires and the rock-walled canyons resound with echos of songs, instead of groans of dying.

The crossing is famous in Indian legend as a place of ambushment of early Navajo clans. The miniature village is under control of Hosteen Chisy Yazzie Bega—Little Rough Man's Son— a friend of Dohis. Opening ceremonies to aid Dohi regain favor of the Navajo gods were held at the gap—many miles to the southwest, under the leadership of Hosteen Shosh-Do-Da Odlanh, another friend of the afflicted chief.

Maidens, attired in colorful garb, appeared tonight in the squaw dance, one of the most picturesque of Navajo dances. It is the only one in which the women of the clan are allowed to participate. This dance was started by a haggled wife of an ancient Navajo medicine man after all efforts to cure an ill tribal leader had failed.

Trinkets and jewelry are collected by the more ambitious of the squaws during the cermony.

At sunrise tomorrow, most of the Indians will mount swift ponies and ride to Dohi's hogan, where the final rites will be held and when, tradition says, evils will be driven from his body.

Collapses In N. B. C. Studio

MARY LEWIS, famous singer, collapsed while broadcasting from the NBC studios in New York recently, and was unable to go on with her program.

One Killed As Plane Crashes In Death Race

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., May 23.—UP—A death race by airplane brought more tragedy to the principals here today when the ship crashed, killed the pilot and hurt a Chicago society woman and her physician who were speeding to her critically injured parents in Georgia.

The physician, Dr. Frederick Harvey ,himself dazed and bleeding, pulled Mrs. Louise McClusker to safety from the wreckage of the ship when it smashed into a tree. He then dragged out the body of Pilot H. L. Mayer, whose neck was broken in the wreckage.

Dr. Harvey carried Mrs. McClusker through the fields to a nearby village ,treated her wounds, ordered another plane and flew on alone to Valdosta, Ga., where Mrs. McClusker's parents, R. B. Stothardt and his wife, were injured in an automobile accident.

Before he left for Georiga, Dr. Harvey said that the plane, which left Chicago at midnight last night, developed motor trouble about dawn, sank to the ground, bounced into a tree and turned over on its nose.

Lumberman Keeps Wife Waiting At Church 3 Times

PORTLAND, Ore., May 23.—UP—John Sahlin, 42-year old Swedish planerman, has disappeared again on the eve of his wedding day.

Miss E'sa Carlson, his fiancee, admitted to police today that her altar-shy lumberman, had twice previously disappeared a few days before his wedding.

Sahlin was scheduled to be married Saturday but has been missing since early this week. Miss Carlson believes he is safe and sound but is unable to make up his mind to take the vows of matrimony.

He has courted her four years the girl said, yet on two previous occasions he had the date set and ring bought but couldn't quite attune his ears to the wedding march.

A hint of his reluctance was given police by A. M. Hagen, superintendent of the Bridal Veil mill, where he was employed. Sahlin received a short vacation last year on the assertion that he was going to get married, Hagen said, but when the planerman returned to work he was still single.

This time, Hagen reported, Sahlin said it was a "sure thing". He and E'sa had decided to pool their resources and take a trip to Sweden, their native country.

But again th girl is waiting at the church, patiently, forgivingly—stil' hoping that John will return in time for their marriage Saturday and for their trip back to dear old Sweden.

Plans Made For School Picnic

Final preparations have been completed for the First Presbyterian Sunday school picnic to be held at the East Shore park today and instructions to the children have been issued by the committee in charge.

They are:

"Bring your lunch and a cup. Coffee will be served by the refreshment committee to all and there will be ice cream for the children. Those who have no means of transportation should be at the church, Twelfth street and Bissell avenue, by 1:30 and automobiles will call to take them to the picnic grounds. Wear your old colthes and a smile and come out to have a good time."

FLOODS HIT SOUTHWEST

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 23.—UP—Harassed residents of the southwest, accustomed to life in a storm cellar, tonight tied the family rowboat to the front porch while rivers in many sections once again began to rise.

In Oklahoma, where residents have been victims of unseasonal wind and tornado storms, as well as floods, the North Canadian river was threatening. It left its banks between Oklahoma City and Shawnee, flooding the Dale bottoms and causing traffic to be rerouted and lowland residents to flee their homes.

Rain storms of the last 24 hours had passed diagonally across Oklahoma, causing many rivers and streams from Lawton, in the southwest, to Bartlesville, in the northeast, to rise. Cold weather and storms are forecast for the week end.

Near Shreveport, La., the Cypress and Red rivers were once more threatening momentarily to leave their banks.

Texas was swept by severe rains in the past 24 hours and the forecast was for continued rain with probable lightning and thunder storms. The district about Jefferson, in northeast Texas, remained under water, although the streams and rivers flowing thru the area were reported receding.

Topping Rites Set For Thursday

Funeral services for George W. Topping, west side pioneer will be held from the Wilson and Kratzer funeral parlors at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon with interment following at the Sunset View cemetery. The services will be under the auspices of the Point Masonic lodge.

Miller Nominated For Postmaster

It was learned here yesterday that the nomination of John A. Miller to be postmaster of Richmond was sent to the senate by President Herbert Hoover.

Since the resignation of James N. Long, who relinquished the position to accept the post of supervisor, Miller has been acting postmaster under temporary appointment.

A la mode

Paris sets the styles in women's dress for the world. London is the arbiter in matters of dress for men. But, New York and Chicago, Boston and San Francisco and hundreds of smaller cities and towns throughout the United States may know what are the latest styles even before they are shown in Paris.

A seeming paradox, but true. Merchants maintain representatives in Paris, London, Vienna and other European style centers, who cable the latest news of the modes, and ship samples long before they are sold abroad. In America, the news is translated into advertisements and printed by local newspapers thruout the United States. And so, American women are able to dress in the latest styles in dress more accurately than the women of any other country on the face of the globe.

Advertising keeps you abreast of the times in other ways. It tells you of the newest and best in every line of merchandise. It keeps you posted on what other people are doing and wearing and using. Read the advertisements. They are truthful and helpful. You can depend on their accuracy, for the reputations of the merchants sponsoring them guarantee their integrity.

Read the advertisements to know what is going on in the world of merchandise.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

What She Manages to Find to Do

"I DON'T see what you women find to do around home all day!" Breathes there a wife and mother with spirit so dead that she hasn't bristled with rage at this familiar masculine objurgation? And now it's Uncle Sam who's actually sending a fat pile of questionnaires from one of his Washington bureaus, to find out what the homemaker is doing every minute of her time. The chances are that many a homemaker won't have time to tell him! But, from experience and observation, we print below just a few of the things which make the hours fly for the busy wife and mother of small children in a servantless home.

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

Get the family up in the morning, by telling husband three times that he'll miss his train, calling Junior four times and finally shaking him awake, warning Ruth that she can't go to evening movies again if she doesn't get up for breakfast.

Get breakfast—hot cereal for the children, because it's good for them; hot cakes for husband because his mother always made them; toast, coffee, milk, orange juice, bacon and eggs. Try to appease the morning grouch invariably nursed by somebody at the breakfast table.

Kiss everybody goodby, making sure that husband has his paper and the letter he meant to take to the office, and that the children have their books and put on their rubbers, since it looks like rain.

Get the three-year-old bathed, dressed and into his high chair with his special cereal and mug of certified.

Pick up after the hurricane caused by the family's morning exodus—hang pajamas in the closet, bath towels over the towel-rail; put away shaving things; drop yesterday's collars in the laundry bag; throw away last night's newspapers, straighten out the hall closet; find the report cards which the children should have taken back to school; collect all the dropped gloves and handkerchiefs.

Answer the telephone and refuse to buy rose bushes.

Put the baby in his pen with blocks and the beloved stuffed monkey. Use liquid cleanser on the rug, where he spilled milk, so that it won't make spots.

Clear the table and wash dishes. Make the beds and finish straightening out rooms.

Give the canary a bath. Answer the baby's questions about the bird and about the letters on the blocks, while gently dissuading him from trying to introduce the bird to the stuffed monkey.

Go to the door three times—once, to turn away a magazine canvasser; again, to refuse a parcel delivered to the wrong address; the third time, to tell an earnest and polite young man from an advertising agency what kind of soap powder is used in the house and why.

Clean the bathroom, also the silver. Wash some of the baby's things.

Answer the telephone four times—two wrong numbers, one call from Junior's Sunday school teacher about an excursion she is organizing, one long gossipy call from a childless woman with two servants and no morning occupation except bothering her friends.

Take the three-year-old for an airing and do some of the marketing on the same trip. Respond, with affectionate animation, to thirty-four, "See that's" and forty-six "What that's."

Telephone for the groceries. Telephone to the plumber about putting a new washer on the faucet. Telephone to the tailor who presses husband's clothes. Telephone to the iceman, who is late, though it's getting hotter every minute and there's cream and a chicken in the ice chest.

Prepare lunch for the children—their school is so near that they can come home at noon, which is nice for the children but not exactly a labor-saver for mother. Settle a dispute about which began calling the other names, and which started making faces. Give them the report cards forgotten in the morning, and send them off.

Do lunch dishes.

Undress baby and put him in bed for a nap.

Answer the telephone three times—another wrong number, a notification of the next meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association, a lady trying to sell herself as a music teacher.

Mend stockings. Sew on buttons. Plan and cut out a costume for the spring fete in which Ruth is to appear as Little Violet.

Dress the baby and answer a few thousand more questions. Read to him from his picture books.

Answer the door twice—a war veteran who is selling needle books, and the policeman with tickets to the police ball.

Provide cookies and apples for two children who come home from school "starving." Catechize them about amount of home work assigned, before allowing them to go out.

Answer telephone four times—all the calls being for the children.

Prepare dinner.

Give baby early supper and put him to bed.

Welcome husband cheerfully and affectionately. Send up an unspoken prayer that to-night the children will not keep dinner waiting. As usual, they come in ten minutes late. Act as mediator between them and stern—also hungry—father, with a punctuality complex.

Do dinner dishes. Set raised muffins for next morning's breakfast.

Help Ruth with home work.

Get the children off to bed not more than half an hour after the time they are supposed to go.

Listen intelligently and sympathetically to husband's exposition of what is wrong with this blankety-blank-blank tariff.

Find something in the ice chest for his before-bedtime lunch.

Look in on the children, to make sure that they are all right.

And so to bed.

With the inclusion of several more interruptions, by telephone and doorbell, this may stand a fairly complete record of how many a homemaker manages to kill a little time every day. We ask her if we're not right!

WOMEN'S TEARS

A woman's tears exhaust a man, they tire;
Her laughter burns into his soul like fire.

Our little lives are patterned for this earth,
Where loneliness comports with fickle mirth.

For every hour a woman gives her laughter,
The earth receives her tears that follow after.

GRACE E. BARR.

She, Too, Thought Herself a Wonderful Wife

"I feel," Mrs. Helen M. Gore of Great Neck told the Supreme Court the other day, "that I have been treated as a possessed idol . . . by my husband. He has always bragged to his friends of the wonderful wife I have been." Then she asked for $1,000 a week alimony—proving that on at least one subject she agreed with her husband.

Care of Knitted Garments

PROLONG the wear of your knitted fabric garments by giving them proper care. Be very careful about catching the threads. In knitted fabrics that thread which is looped into connecting stitches is continuous and if broken means an annoying run.

When one or more threads become snagged, gently smooth out the fabric and with the fingers carefully work the threads back into their original place. After the fabric is nearly straightened out place it in an embroidery hoop without disturbing the threads and warp, then brush with a firm, soft brush and the threads will fall right into their original position.

Never use a pin in knitted garments and do not hang them on hooks or over sharp edges. These all are more or less a strain on the threads.

The safest place for knitted garments is in a drawer or box and neatly folded.

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

Housewives should take a tip from the findings of a survey recently conducted among restaurants that cater to business men. According to this investigation, cocoanut enjoys an almost overwhelming popularity, for in a great number of cafes, dairy lunch rooms and hotel restaurants it was reported that while other desserts enjoyed seasonal popularity, cocoanut pie, cocoanut custard, and cocoanut cake are always in great demand.

KAREN HOLLIS

Like other tropical products, cocoanut has a delicious flavor of its own, but also blends well with other flavors. It has many uses, and cooks are constantly finding new ones. The day when cocoanut served mainly as a decoration is past; now the expert cook uses cocoanut in foods, as well as on.

Cocoanut is now to be had in three forms. You can get it coarsely grated, sweetened and packed dry; finely shredded, slightly sweetened and packed moist, or unsweetened and put up in its own milk. The latter is best for use in sauces and salads where a lower sugar content is desired, but for custards and puddings the second variety is best.

A new dessert that is very simple to make and delicious as a dinner finale on a warm evening is cocoanut mousse. This can be prepared while you are getting luncheon. It is then packed away in ice and salt and is all ready to serve at dinner. Or, if you are lucky enough to have a mechanical refrigerator, it can be prepared later in the day, as two hours are sufficient for freezing it. If your refrigerator is the type that has automatic cold control, it can be prepared in even less time than that by setting the cold control dial at the most rapid freezing point.

COCOANUT MOUSSE

1 egg white, unbeaten
1 cup heavy cream
½ cup sugar
Pinch of salt
Few drops of almond extract
¼ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup cocoanut, toasted and cooled.

Combine egg white and cream in a small bowl and beat with a rotary egg beater until stiff. Add sugar gradually, beating well. Add salt, flavoring and cocoanut. Pour into a mould, cover with waxed paper and press cover tightly down over waxed paper. Pack in equal parts of ice and salt, and let stand for six hours, or until firm. This recipe makes one and one-half pints of mousse. This can be served as it is, or it is delicious with a fruit sauce.

Oh, Go to Bed

By Eliot Kays Stone

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

"DAD, why do so many people live in the city?"

"A great many people are born in the city, and others come in on account of business or better opportunities for work."

"Can't they work in the country?"

"I suppose so, on the farms."

"Do they have bread lines on the farms?"

"Why, no, of course not."

"Why don't people go and work on the farms?"

"No one wants to be a hick."

"Why doesn't any one want to be a hick?"

"Oh, go to bed."

Think It Over

By Alfalfa Smith

DON'T give way to your moods. They are likely to make a monkey out of you. Besides, people do not understand you when you are moody.

It is true there may be sweet consolation for you in giving away to your moods but it does not pay in the long run.

Those who have something to do, who have an aim in life, never give way to their moods.

They are too busy.

May I suggest that you get something to do instead of moping?

If you must have moods, make them happy.

How to Be Well Dressed En Route

By Ann Roberts

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

COAT OF SOFT BASKET-WEAVE HUNTER'S GREEN TWEED FOR TRAVEL

WHEN traveling, if ever, you always feel the need of being well dressed. Don't you remember how your mother used to get out all your best clothes for that trip to the seashore or country? You were too hot, probably—or too cold—but you had on your best clothes just the same, and that seemed to be the whole point.

The instinct remains and now when all roads lead to railroad trains or boats the question comes—what is the best dressing en route?

Typical travel costume, carrying shouts of acclaim from those who know smartness, is sketched on this page.

Hunter's green tweed coat—green Jersey dress—green and brown accessories.

This tone of deep, dark green is very well thought of as a fashion color, especially for out of doors in clammy weather and for any activity, such as travel, where wear and tear takes place.

Tweed Tailored to Smartness

TWEED of that soft, pliable, sheer, rough-finish, basket-weave sort is so smart just now that it cannot be mistaken. Then, with the dark green color and the cut of the coat so well done with its gracefully shaped cape, it is just about perfect.

Its lining is one of its nicest features. It is plaid in red, yellow and shades of green on a neutral background.

That same silk is used to make a triangle scarf that is knotted at the back of the neck, according to the illustration. It is an attractive way of arranging a scarf and most becoming, for really the folds fall like a Vionnet neckline which, every one knows, is just about foolproof for style and general becomingness.

Jersey for Traveling Frock

NOW for your dress to take traveling—to suit your coat in style and everything else and to suit you.

For those cold days in Europe when steam heat seems far away, or for journeying on the sea or to the mountains, no frock comes through the ordeal with better grace than the jersey.

You know that new, soft quality that Chanel uses—just thick enough for protection and not too thick to be hot—that's the material for the dress that may be called upon to go through trip after trip with you and be expected to survive with some vestige of style.

With this green coat have the jersey dress of the same tone and have it something on the order of the one sketched. With its removable yoke of white handkerchief linen it will always be smart and will keep up a brave feeling of freshness.

Correct Finish for Fashion and Travel

FOR the hat—a beret for smartness you know—and a beret for service certainly. The close felt hat is just as good with a brim not more than an inch and a half wide and a tiny feather at the side. It is better only because it shades the eyes and that is an item when all sorts of suns are faced. Take one of each, then, for they fold up and carry in small spaces with good grace.

The hat can match the coat or it can match the shoes, which should be two or three eyelet dark brown kid with leather heels or, if you wish, perforated kid pumps, also with leather heels.

Handbag and Handkerchief

A COLORED patent leather envelope purse is a high fashion and most attractive. Here we see it in green to match the coat and dress. Or you may have it with this ensemble in brown to match the shoes. A tweed purse would be excellent, too, this to match the coat—but in any case keep it simple—the envelope type or top handle, or a chain in metal—not a fancy one—is good.

The handkerchief can give a distinctive note—have it larger than is usual—they come this size now for ladies when service is called for. And this one might have green and yellow stripes around the edges, rolled hem and cut out or embroidered initial.

Cooler Frock in Harmony

WHEN the jersey frock is too hot a proposition, one of flat crepe is suggested—this also in matching color. You can have two or three of them made differently, for they pack easily and will keep up that feeling of crispness which it is necessary to maintain if you would feel smart as well as look the part.

NECKERCHIEF OF GAY PLAID SILK, AND GREEN PATENT LEATHER PURSE

Tweedy Travel Suit

A SUIT with cape to match is a grand possession for travel. The suit—you know its blessing, and the cape is so useful for extra warmth. It is smart, too, when worn with separate dresses in the country.

The suit with a top coat is standard—not to be excelled when the practical is considered. But the value of this is understood and its aspects for up-to-date smartness will be taken up in a later article.

With suits used for traveling the same accessories that are described to go with the coat and dress are in good style.

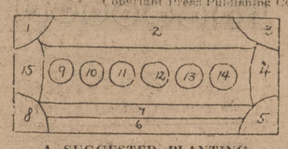
Planting the Perennials

By Karin Broberg

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930



A SUGGESTED PLANTING

Key—1, Golden Glow; 2, Cosmos; 3, Hollyhock; 4, Lily of the Valley; 5, Forget-Me-Not; 6, Alyssum; 7, Sweet William; 8, Oriental Poppy; 9, Asters; 10, Babysbreath; 11, Phlox; 12, Canterbury Bells; 13, Hibiscus; 14, Larkspur; 15, Iris.

ALWAYS plant perennials in beds and borders; never scatter them in isolated spots over the lawn. A border may be formal or informal, meaning that they can be planted in group formation, or in straight lines. The best way is to plan the border on paper before setting out the plants. Always place the tall plants in the background and the low-growing plants in the foreground. Try to make the borders four feet or more in width. Aim to create big splashes of color; small dots of color are never impressive.

Perennials are rarely moved, therefore prepare the ground well before planting. Many perennials are deep rooters, and require to be placed in a rich soil that is at least one foot in depth. These plants will suffer less from drought in mid-summer if so planted. Always incorporate some well rotted manure in the sub-soil.

In planning a perennial border, consider some of the well known varieties first; for example, bearded iris. It does well in a dry, sunny place. Set the tubers about a foot apart. Among other plants that will do well in a dry place are babysbreath, asters, hardy phlox and sweet william.

The old fashioned Canterbury bells look well when planted near the pink or white phlox. They grow to a height of three feet or more. Therefore place them at the back of the border. Hibiscus should also be placed at the back of the border. These plants grow from three to eight feet tall. Larkspur is another tall-growing plant.

Among the perennials that may be used as edging plants we have sweet william, alyssum, phlox subulata, stonecrop and candytuft.

TELLING THE WORLD

WELL, IT COULD HAPPEN

THE man without a radio set:

FRIEND—Hello, Emil. Where are you working now?

EMIL (the man who doesn't own one)—I'm with the Acme Wire Netting Company.

FRIEND—Oh, the Acme Wire Netting Company, INCORPULATED.

EMIL—The word is "incorporated"—not what YOU said.

FRIEND—oh, sho', sho'. Emil. De Acme Wire Netting Company, Incorporated.

EMIL—That's better. There's entirely too much slovenly English being spoken.

FRIEND—Sho', sho'. I'll bet you'se regusted.

EMIL (coldly)—Would you mind repeating that?

FRIEND—I said I bet you'se regusted.

EMIL—What you meant, I take it, was that you would wager I'm disgusted.

FRIEND—Sho', sho'.

EMIL—Well, I am. And can't you say anything but "sho,' sho'"?

FRIEND—Yass, sir, Emil. I sho' can.

EMIL—Jim, you've had a good education. You shouldn't be garbling your words so.

FRIEND—Emil, if you'se regusted I ain't gonna do it no mo'.

EMIL—There you go again. What's your idea?

FRIEND—Whass my idea of bringin' that up, hey, Emil?

EMIL—It's preposterous.

FRIEND—Thass the propolition exactly. Check and double check.

* * *

EMIL—Jim, what's come over you? The last time I saw you, a year ago, you were rational.

FRIEND—What's wrong with me now, Emil? I don't notice any difference?

EMIL—I mean this gibberish you're using. Surely you know how to pronounce incorporated, proposition and disgusted.

FRIEND—Sho', sho', Emil. I guess Madame Queens gone to my head. I better take a ride in a Fresh Air taxi.

EMIL—You need a ride in a padded wagon, I'd say. Who is this Madame Queen?

FRIEND—You mean to say you don't know Madame Queen? Awah, awah, awah! I expectorate you neber heard of Ruby Taylor, either.

EMIL—I certainly didn't.

FRIEND—Awah, awah, awah! Emil, next thing you're gonna tell me you neber heard of Amos and Andy.

EMIL—I've heard of Andy Mellon, as he's facetiously called. But Amos is unknown to me.

FRIEND—And I suppose you don't know Rudy Vallee, Will Rogers and Floyd Gibbons, either.

EMIL—I've heard of Rogers. He's a cowboy. But what were those other two names?

FRIEND—Rudy Vallee, the famous crooner—

EMIL—The famous WHAT?

FRIEND—The famous crooner. He croons.

EMIL—I give up. And what was the other name you mentioned?

FRIEND—Floyd Gibbons, the headline hunter.

EMIL—You're sure you don't mean Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson?

FRIEND—No, I said Floyd Gibbons. You know—the rapid fire talker.

EMIL—They're all foreign to me.

FRIEND—Listen, Emil. What do you do every night you're home?

EMIL—I sit down and read a good book.

FRIEND—And what do you do on Sunday nights?

EMIL—Usually finish the Sunday papers.

FRIEND—You mean to say you don't ever listen to Will Rogers or Amos and Andy?

EMIL—No, I don't.

FRIEND—Good heavens, Emil! How do you ever know the right brand of toothpaste to ask for?

THIS AND THAT

Just out of curiosity, we'd like to hear Floyd Gibbons broadcast a chess tournament.

That future shadow the cigaret people would have you avoid looks more like a goitre to us.

And the tobacco people overlooked a bet last week in not announcing a cigaret that not only soothes the throat, stifles coughing and reduces obesity but also prevents forest fires.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

GOLDEN DAWN

This story is based on Warner Bros. Vitaphone production of the play by Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II.

SYNOPSIS

Though fair-skinned, Dawn, mystery girl of the African tribe in British East African Protectorate, believes herself black. Tom Allen, young plantation owner, loves her. He overhears secret of her Caucasian birth. Dawn has reluctantly been consecrated as mystic bride of the black god, Malunghu. Shep, bullying whip-man, is instrumental in having Tom ordered back to England by Captain Eric, German officer in command of the seized territory. Shep has received a terrific beating from Tom in the jungle. He tells Dawn the secret of her white birth, hints of his sinister designs, and threatens to have her burned, by informing the natives that she is white.

INSTALLMENT TWENTY-ONE

That conclusion silenced the calls of the Africa-haters. Tom only smiled. He wasn't unwilling to let his comrades know how deeply and vengefully he hated the whip man.

"Sure," he confessed, "I'd take comfort in searing Shep's hide with his own whip. Just as I did last night."

"Last night?" The men chorused in surprise.

"Yes," was the complacent answer. "I had a date with a girl and when Shep intruded I took his lash from him and wrapped it around him until my arms grew weary. And that's why I'm with you today."

"Just for havin' a date with that native girl," remarked one sympathizer.

"Not a native girl," Tom said quietly. "The girl I met is white. Dawn."

"Dawn. You mean Mooda's daughter?"

"I mean the girl Mooda falsely claims as a daughter."

There arose a mingling of surprised cries and assurances that he should have acquainted Captain Eric with the knowledge."

"I was in no position to tell Captain Eric," Tom explained. "Ever since I overheard a conversation between Mooda and Shep I had been suspicious that Dawn was not a native girl. You men have seen her. You have, all of you, noted her Caucasian features, her marked difference from the other native girls. Of course it was impossible, there in the settlement, to investigate her paternity, but I now know all I need to know."

"But how did you find it out?" inquired Anzac.

"From Shep."

"Shep? He told you?"

"Yes," said Tom. "Now there is no reason you fellows shouldn't know that I'm in love with Dawn—incurably in love. I have been, I guess, ever since I've known her. But I had the same horror you have of intermarrying with the natives. So it would have been unwise for me to state myself. Now, by way of making my trip to England as miserable as possible, I have Shep's confession that Dawn is white."

"But you don't know she is white beyond dispute. You have no irrefutable proof," he was reminded.

"Perhaps not," Tom admitted, "and that's the reason I'm coming back here as soon I'm able. I'm going to find that proof."

"Well, more power to you," was Anzac's wish.

The sea journey to England was not strictly uneventful. Aboard there was nothing much to do but stare out over the horizon. Occasionally the sight of a periscope rewarded this vigil and there followed a few minutes of excitement.

In accordance with his vow, Tom started in search of a recruiting office directly he stepped from the boat train. As he took leave of Anzac, he made a final suggestion that the Australian accompany him.

"London is full of air raids," he warned, "and you will really find more comfort at the front."

"It isn't that," Anzac insisted. "I just must get my fill of stout before I go."

The men took leave of each other with assurance that they probably would meet in Africa again. Tom presented himself to the recruiting officer and was speedily accepted. He was assigned to a regiment which was scheduled to depart for the front within forty-eight hours.

Aboard the boat he heard his name called and, turning, beheld Anzac, looking sheepish in a new uniform. "Well, here I am after all," said the Australian. "Anyway, I got some good roast beef and ale in two days. After such a holiday I'm ready for a little war."

Alone of the natives the Maid of Malunghu was without fear of Shep Keyes. Once she had loved him in a rather remote way. It was his position among the blacks that attracted her to him, not Shep himself. Shep had returned her affection in a brusque manner, but was too jealous of his power ever to give himself completely to her.

For a time the girl irritated Shep by flirting with the white men at the canteen. As had been the case with Pigeon, many of them suffered whippings for their rendezvous with the girl. Latterly, however, Shep was content to let the Maid indulge in whatever flirtations she cared to.

Too, the Maid hated Dawn. Before Dawn had been chosen the bride of Malunghu the Maid had desired that honor herself. It would have placed her above Shep Keyes, and, because she was vengeful, she most ardently longed to be in a position to command him. Instead, she now found herself a servant of the women Shep vainly loved—an exalted servant, true, but a servant for all that.

Ever since Dawn's bridal day the Maid had schemed to trap her in violation of her vows. She already was torn with suspicion regarding Dawn's relations with Tom Allen, but she had no way of supporting any charges against her. Tom's departure with the other prisoners had of course balked her plan for catching them together. And since Dawn was too dejected to seek excitements outside the temple the Maid's crusade was frustrated.

She decided, therefore, to strike through Shep. No longer in fear of Tom, Shep was making frequent visits to the temple. He came always on pretext of serving the natives, to ask Dawn, as Thabu, to answer their prayers and to bestow upon them the blessings of Malunghu. So sarcastically did Shep utter his supplications that Dawn could not fail to understand his threat.

He was implying that he was in a position to discredit her with the natives. Unless she complied with his demands, he hinted, he would betray her. The blindly believing natives asked and expected miraculous performances. If Dawn failed to perform these miracles she was therefore less than a goddess and deserving of death.

Always Dawn received Shep solemnly, joined him in his travesty of the jungle religion, and promised to invoke what blessings she could for her people. She never received Shep, however, unless the Maid were present. Almost intuitively she knew the Maid to possess a secret which gave the whip man fear.

Unable to escape the surveillance of the Maid, Shep's irritation grew. Because of Captain Eric's eagerness to remain at peace with the blacks, he relaxed his watch over them. They roamed at will, Shep especially. He took to haunting the jungles near the temple, ever on the alert to sneak within on one of the rare occasions when the Maid was absent at the canteen.

One day, venturing nearer than usual to the temple, he was startled to see the Maid emerge from the thicket that bordered the trail.

"You am on your way to the temple?" she suggested with airy malice.

"I'se goin' where I'se goin'," Shep returned sourly.

The Maid smiled cunningly. "I wondered when you would come," she said. "But I knew some time I would see you."

Shep, realizing that she purposed to advantage herself of his embarrassment by forcing him to renew his attention to her, refused to be trapped. "How you know dat?" he demanded.

"You am here," she reminded him.

"I'se here for somethin' else" he growled. "Dem niggers wants more prayers from Dawn."

"Since Dawn am Thabu you do a lot for the natives," she observed. "Pigeon say so."

"I'll kill dat white swine!" Shep exploded fearfully. "Am you seein' Pigeon here at de temple?"

"Lots of white men call on Malunghu Maid," she said with exasperating coolness, "but Malunghu won't let them come into the temple. They hear about you asking prayer for niggers and laugh at you at the canteen. I go down there now and listen to them."

Shep's disturbed spirits soared. "You am goin' to the canteen—now?" he asked.

CONFISCATED LIQUOR LOST

before Police Judge A. J. Thompson yesterday and were fined $500 each on charges of possession and transportation of liquor.

And yesterday, after the trial was over, Traffic Officer Floyd Gilbert went to destroy the confiscated liquor.

Four Tins Gone

And when he had made the arrest, Gilbert said there were 31 tins of liquor. Now, he reported there were only 27.

And the recount started. No matter how the boys counted the tins, backwards, forwards and twice around, there were only 27 tins of the brew.

Authorities are trying to figure out whether or not Gilbert made a mistake in his report and counted four cans too many, or whether someone helped himself to the keys to the jail and confiscated some of the confiscated liquor for his own personal use.

Probe On

In the meantime, city hall employes are "laying low" and are waiting to nab the man who babbed the liquor.

An investigation of the affair is being carried out by authorities of the neighboring city.

Dance Passes 217th Hour

With eight couples still surviving, the Vaudeville Dance Marathon sponsored by El Cerrito Post 340 of the American Legion, passed the 217th hour at 12 o'clock last night.

Despite the fact that the contestants are only sleeping 15 minutes of each hour, the majority are holding up well. Marathon experts declare however that after the five hundred hour mark is passed, the dancers will begin to drop out regularly.

One consolation the losers will have is that after the contest is ended they will at least have had some experience in performing before the public eye.

Everything from singing and dancing to portraying the animals in a mock circus has been the allotment of the contestants. Even Charlotte Greenwood was shown up Thursday when the entire troupe went to bed on the stage.

Dewey Camp Initiates 2 Candidates

An entertaining and interesting meeting of the Admiral Dewey Auxiliary to Spanish War Veterans was held in Memorial hall last night, with Mrs. Cora Rogers, president, presiding.

During the meeting two candidates were initiated and Mrs. Mae Keltz, Mrs. Elizabeth Cramer, Mrs. Lucille Kister and Mrs. Cora Rogers, delegates to the state convention in Fresno recently, gave a report to the session.

Miss Julia Robbins, who is graduating from the Richmond union high school this term, was the recipient of a beautiful graduation gift from the auxiliary, Mrs. Lucille Kister make the presentation.

At the conclusion of the meeting, a group of Camp Fire Girls put on a humorous skit for the members, and refreshments were served.

Delinquency Of Taxes Decrease

MARTINEZ, May 23.—County Tax Collector Martin W. Joost revealed today that tax delinquencies this year were less than those of last year. The total amount of taxes on the county books this year was $3,616,586.14 of which $3,494,550.12 was collected leaving a delinquency of $122,036.02 or 3.3 percent. The delinquency last year was $131,021-46, or 3.4 percent. Tax rolls however totaled $165,000 more last year than this year.

Zeppelin Leaves For Long Trip To Rio de Janeiro

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, May 24 —UP—The National telegraph here reported that the Graf Zeppelin, enroute from Pernambuco to this city, passed Maragogy, state of Alacoas, at 1:24—11:25 p. m. Friday EST—

BERNAMBUCO, May 23.—UP—The third stage of the Graf Zeppelin's present tour, a mere jaunt compared with the two previous hops, began at 11:50 p. m.—9:50 EST—when the airship left the mooring mast at Guiquia air field here and headed for Rio De Janeiro, 1250 miles away.

It was expected that the trip would be made in 20 hours. The flight to Rio was in the nature of a courtesy to the Brazilian government as the Graf Zeppelin will return here sometime Monday to complete loading of supplies and refueling for the long northward journey to Havanna and New York.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the German ship was not at all certain he would be able to land at Rio when the ship sailed tonight. There is no mooring mast at the Brazilian national capital and if the weather conditions are not excellent, no landing will be made.

GUN FOUND IN RUM CASE SLAYING

SAN RAFAEL, May 23. —UP— Discovery of a revolver, believed to be the gun that was used in the gangster killing of M. G. Sturtevant, government witness in a liquor conspiracy case, only added more mystery to the case tonight.

Vincent Lucich, 39, who made his surrender to authorities a dramatic event, was held here on an open charge, and Mrs. Grace Berri, wife of Arnold Berri, whom Sturtevant testified against, and Lucich's accuser, was continuing her recovery from a bullet wound in a Petaluma hospital.

Lucich and Mrs. Berri have told conflicting stories, neither of them explaining the major points upon which the investigation must depend.

Gun Found

The revolver was found late today on the highway, between Tomales Bay, where the shooting occurred Wednesday evening, and Petaluma. It was about five miles from the place where Lucich claimed he tossed his gun away. There were four empty chambers, while Lucich, a former convict, had declared he fired only three shots, two of which penetrated Sturtevant's side, the other going through Mrs. Berri's right lung.

Mrs. Berri said in her statement that Sturtevant was shot without warning and claimed she escaped death because Lucich was unable to pursue her on account of his artificial leg.

Police Balked ....

Authorities have failed in every attempt to learn whether the shooting resulted from a rivalry between the three persons alone, or if it was encouraged by a powerful gang.

They revealed that Mrs. Berri was violating parole when she went for the ride with Sturtevant and Lucich that ended in the tragedy. Nearly a year ago, she and Sturtevant were arrested on a morals charge and later Berri filed suit for divorce, naming Sturtevant.

When Mrs. Berri answered the charge, she was placed on probation with the understanding that she should never again go with Sturtevant.

Henry Greer, district attorney, said Lucich would be held on the open charge until Mrs. Berri had recovered enough to sign a warrant.

OPERETTA AT JUNIOR HIGH ENJOYED

After months of rehearsal and preparations, the presentation of the operetta "Time" by 60 students of the Roosevelt Junior high school, was given last night before a large crowd of spectators in the Roosevelt auditorium.

The stage was attractively decorated with myriads of tulips attractively setting off a large Dutch windmill and a sailboat that rocked lazily on the Zuyder Zee.

The costumes, which were made by the students themselves, were copied after the peasant costumes of Vollandam and the Isle of Markham in Holland with a color scheme of red, yellow, blue and white being carried out.

The girls who took the leading parts; Christina, Helen Vaughn; Katinka, Mary Lou Hollyman, and Anna, Mary Selzer, were dressed in particularly bright costumes which set them out in relief from the rest of the settings.

In some of the scenes, choruses of 50 pupils were presented. The chorus work was done under the direction of Miss Ingeborg Adams, Mss Christine Walther directed the speaking parts, and Miss Catherine Warner, head of the music department of Roosevelt junior high directed the operetta. The make-up committee was headed by Mrs. Maude Culbertson and consisted of Miss Margaret Skinner, Mrs. Blossom Rice, Mrs. Alice Robinson and Miss Betty Jo-Hudges. Between the acts candy was sold by the classes of Miss Aleece Foges.

The overture was played by an orchestra of 30 pieces made up of students of Roosevelt and Longfellow schools.
